Key Responsibilities

- Develop and implement engaging, rigorous lesson plans aligned with New York State Social Studies Standards and the College Board AP course curriculum and requirements.
- Teach Advanced Placement history courses, such as AP United States History, AP World History: Modern, or AP European History, based on school needs and the candidate's qualifications.
- Prepare students for AP examinations through targeted instruction, practice assessments, document-based questions (DBQs), long essay questions (LEQs), and short-answer questions (SAQs).
- Incorporate primary and secondary sources, historical documents, maps, visual materials, and other resources to deepen students' understanding of historical events and perspectives.
- Assess student progress regularly and provide timely, constructive feedback to support academic growth and mastery of course content.

- Differentiate instruction to meet diverse learning needs while maintaining high academic expectations.

Qualifications

- Bachelor's degree in history, Social Studies; a Master's degree is preferred.
- Strong content knowledge in history and an understanding of the academic expectations associated with Advanced Placement coursework.
- Experience teaching AP history courses preferred; familiarity with College Board AP course frameworks, assessment formats, and examination requirements is highly desirable.
- Strong classroom management, communication, and interpersonal skills.
- Demonstrated ability to differentiate instruction and support students with diverse academic needs.

Benefits

- Competitive salary, 401k, 95% coverage for medical, vision, and dental insurance.
- Supportive and collaborative work environment.
